

One more week for recruiting volunteers! There is no such thing as too many volunteers! I've had several coordinators call me in tears while trying to plan their routes as they realized that their volunteers didn't stretch nearly as far as they thought. Any hours spent recruiting volunteers this week will save you dozens of hours in a few weeks.

As always, I'm here to help! Feel free to contact me with any questions.